

THE COLLECTED LETTERS OF
VALERIE SENDECKI

OF

CONSULTANTS ADVISORY GROUP (CAG)

AS WRITTEN TO KATHRYN CRAMER

"Publish whatever parts of our conversations you see fit. Just try to be a fair and balanced reporter and don't print anymore wild speculation, negative innuendos and scandalous slurs. "

PLEASANTVILLE, NEW YORK
JANUARY 2006

Dec 14, 2005 10:03 PM

Ms Kramer

Perhaps we can end all of this unwelcome buzz by answering your questions directly.

We are not a Private Military Company but yes...everyone in CAG is former military or agency. It is not illegal to indicate that you can service classified contracts. Our website is new because we had to wait for the former owner of caginternational.com to give up the web address. We don't need a website for advertising. Our USA office is in Tampa. Yes we have offices in other countries where we are doing business. No we are not headquartered in the USA. CAG is not a publicly held company. We have no negative history. Everyone in CAG has a squeaky clean past.

What else would you like to know?

Why are you interested in CAG at all? I don't intend to be rude but CAG does not want or need attention. So let us ladies settle this, end the mystery and return to our regular programming. Fair enough?

--

Valerie Sendeki Administrative Officer
CONSULTANTS ADVISORY GROUP (CAG)
International Management Consulting

Dec 15, 2005 8:16 AM

Good Morning Ms Kramer -

I wish we could talk about this over a fine cup of Haitian coffee so that you could enjoy the beautiful from the Hotel Montana. It's breathtaking.

Do you have any unanswered questions about us? I'm thinking that we would both be better served if we could achieve closure in this matter. Why not ask them now? Then I can forward a more suitable reply than my previous knee jerk reaction.

We'd really like to know why you are so interested in CAG. Why are you calling us a security company? We certainly are not.

Please take a moment to correspond with me a bit more before you post anything else on your site. Our reputation and your credibility is certainly worth an investment in further dialog before more inaccuracies are published.

Val

Dec 15, 2005 11:50 AM

K

That's a good question. I don't want to give you some cold marketing answer or polished corporate double-speak so let me answer in my own words.

I find many people think of armed uniformed SWAT guys when they see the word Anti-Terrorism but that is far removed from what CAG is involved in. Anti-Terrorism is a very broad field. Much more of the field is about preparedness, risk mitigation, architectural design, HAZMAT handling, business continuity, first responders, fire protection, industrial safety etc. etc.

The 9-11 commission strongly recommended that private business enterprise adopt NFPA 1600 as a model for businesses readiness. They effectively created this service market. (Here's a copy of NFPA 1600 online: <http://www.nfpa.org/PDF/nfpa1600.pdf?src=nfpa>) For a typical business client we would conduct a NFPA 1600 audit then work with them to bring their enterprise up to standard. This type of service is a rapidly growing field as more and more businesses come to realize their liability if they are non-compliant.

While involved in the audit, we identify all the areas that need to be addressed to really provide effective safety beyond the guidelines of the NFPA.

We then present a complete systems approach to overall security and safety and leave it to the client to decide what needs to be done. CAG does not accept any sales commission or gratuity from any vendor so our recommendations are based on the most effective solution rather than product specific advice.

Most importantly let me stress that we never provide any type of armed protection service. It is likely that in some projects we will identify the need for security officers as part of the overall systems approach to management but we will never provide those services.

What we do is valuable but not glamorous. CAG is a "total solution" company that prides itself on listening carefully to a requirement, engaging in spirited dialogue, designing and proposing a solution, and implementing the approved plan; on time, and within budget. We are neither a training nor procurement company, but we do both as an adjunct to satisfying a contract. As a virtual company, a model developed by the Harvard Business School, CAG first obtains a contract, and then develops a team(s) to satisfy the contract, managing the initiative from start to finish. By doing so, we utilize the best talent available for a project, procure the best equipment and materials, and keep the team integral to the contract for its life. Our clients have lauded this model time and again because of its effectiveness, and consistency. They enjoy dealing with the same project officers, developing a close and mutually beneficial relationship with team members, and witnessing our ability to locate and procure equipment and materials at competitive prices.

Simply put we just give advice, we make recommendations, design and implement programs. We don't have our own little army or provide PSDs. We are all just quiet people living quiet lives while practicing our tradecraft without desire for publicity. We really are just a management consulting firm seeking solutions to complex problems.

Is there anything else you'd like to know?

Val

On 12/15/05, Kathryn Cramer wrote:

> Dear Val:

>

> I'm confused. If you're not a private military company and not a > security company, then what are these > anti-terrorism service? What's left?

>

> K

Dec 15, 2005 7:52 PM

Kathryn

CAG is comprised of ex-patriats who have all served the US honorably. Do we not have the same right to personal privacy that any other citizen is entitled too? Privacy issues should be a significant concern for everyone. If you can have an unlisted number and a private mailbox, should not everyone be entitled to the same. CAG is not a recipient of any US public funds so we are entitled to privacy as anyone else is. How could our work be against the best interest of the United States?

CAG Internacional, S.A. is a Panama City, Republic of Panama registered corporation. We are based in Panama because the owners retired there when they left the US Army. Having been instructors at the former US Jungle Warfare Training Center, they found wives there and fell in love with the lifestyle. There are also numerous business advantages and asset protections. It's also very inexpensive to live there.

I live in Tampa, Florida and have for the better part of 25 years. I'm a single Mom living with a ten year old son and an 8 year old precocious daughter. I love them dearly and feel that I should maintain a private life separate from work for their security and mine. No one has the right to snoop into our personal life.

Kathryn, woman to woman let's cut the proverbial crap and get down to the heart of your suspicion of CAG; Jordan Sage-Thomas, a young highly educated woman with an overactive imagination. I had lunch with Jordan today and she confessed that she had been checking us out. She told me she emailed you about Top Cat and the relationship she assumed we had with the company.

There is no relationship between CAG and Top Cat. CAG, working with the Haitian National Police and Coast Guard, has delivered a comprehensive proposed solution to Haiti's totally ineffective Customs control and interdiction problems. In a country as desperately poor as Haiti, where 86% of its lawfully imposed customs tariffs are lost to blackmarket smuggling through unregulated ports, our proposal would not only be self funding and self sustaining - it would generate 17 million dollars a year over the cost of implementation, maintenance and operations. The only mention ever made of Top Cat in our proposal is a recommendation that seven 31 to 34 foot speed boats, of a type similar to the specs for a Cobra brand Predator patrol boat, marketed by Top Cat Marine, be used as the water based enforcement option in our overall plan. We also recommended that the Haitian Coast Guard use US government, DEA funding to lease and operate a SeaWolf Amphibian Patrol Plane to detect smuggling operations and provide Search and Rescue assistance. We are not connected to Top Cat or SeaWolf; they just make great tools. The plan we submitted would greatly serve US interest by cutting the transnational shipment of drugs through Haiti by 40 percent.

Publish whatever parts of our conversations you see fit. Just try to be a fair and balanced reporter and don't print anymore wild speculation, negative innuendos and scandalous slurs. I am done trying to set the record straight.

--

Valerie Sendeki
Administrative Officer
CONSULTANTS ADVISORY GROUP (CAG)
International Management Consulting

Dec 15, 2005 8:17 PM

That is not public information.

On 12/15/05, Kathryn Cramer wrote:

> Who are the executives of Top Cat? Who owns it?

Jan 13, 2006 6:00 PM

Kathryn

Dr. Sage will no longer be able to respond to you via her former email account. See below -

Teresa M. Puello in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic will no longer be able to respond to you via her email account either. It is not smart to call her again from 914-[my phone number] registered to: David G Hartwell, [my street address], Pleasantville, NY 10570.

You were the duped by two socialist/communist agent provocateurs of the Haitian terrorist group ADLN seeking to discredit the Government of Haiti, promote instability, block democratic elections and return the former President Aristide to power. ADLN uses the press and the Internet masterfully to advance their cause and you are not the first naive fool to be hooked into their scams.

You spread baseless, unfounded lies about CAG International and your web site continues to discredit a proud and honorable company that never sought any publicity or acclaim for the many good works they have done. You expressed in an email to a known communist terrorist supporter the desire to obtain photos of me; a person who is not a public character nor desirous of living in the public domain. You would expose me to increased risk of harm just to have something to write about because you don't feel that I have a right to personal privacy.

Perhaps you are a communist after all.

On behalf of CAG, I answered your questions honestly and the record of those conversations stand. CAG grows weary of you and your continued efforts to harm its image and the reputation of its people. You continue to exhibit a desire to interfere with our lawful business operations and we will not be tolerant much longer. Our people live and work in dangerous places and they have no need of an additional threat from you.

You should cease and desist immediately or be prepared to accept financial responsibility for your disreputable actions.

--

CONSULTANTS ADVISORY GROUP (CAG) Valerie
Sendecki
Administrative Officer

> PURSUANT TO THE MOU DATED 010906
THE FOLLOWING INTERCEPT IS HEREBY PROVIDED

> FOR YOUR INTERNAL OPSEC USE. ////

>

> FROM THE EMAIL ACCOUNT OF DR JORDAN
SAGE-THOMAS/DSSIU CASE #HT010307-
06C////

>

> MESSAGE #03005.567.12 ////THIS IS 4 OF 4
MESSAGES FROM THIS SENDER.////

>
> Cc: NONE
> Bcc: UNKNOWN
>
> From: Kathryn Cramer
>To: Sage Thomas
>>Subject: functioning address
>>Date: Fri, 13 Jan 2006 12:10:40 -0500
>>
>>Dear Sage:
>>
>>Are you able to receive email at this address currently?
>>
>>Kathryn Cramer

Jan 13, 2006 6:18 PM

Why?

On 1/13/06, Kathryn Cramer wrote:

> May I please have a valid address and phone >number for your US legal counsel.

Jan 13, 2006 7:31 PM

Kathryn, I'm tired. I've got a huge workload, I've been away from my children for too long and the X is dating a women half my age. I've spent a lifetime commanding men and playing by "big boy" rules so forgive me if I sound terse with you. Please consider my position for a moment: All correspondence with you and all the other emails YOU inspired are distracting me from my responsibilities. You are like the cold sore that pops up just as you are getting ready to go out on a date. I'd rather be sleeping now than writing to you. I haven't time for this. Please try to understand.

We never had these headaches before your blog. YOU created this unwelcome, unnecessary and undesirable publicity for us. We never had a web site before and don't need one now but 2 weeks ago you could Google CAG and find nothing. Now you will find 18 links to your website that paints a negative picture of the people I work for.

Sage and Puello were taken into custody by lawful authorities in Haiti and the DR. Sage had diplomatic immunity so she has already been released and expelled from Haiti. She's against democracy but of course she headed straight to the Miami from here. Puello was detained for questioning by Dominican authorities and her status is unclear. Both "ladies" agreed to give full access to their accounts and phones in order to fully confirm the extent of their treachery rather than be subject to further legal consequences.

What were you thinking calling a foreign country on an open phone line? Caller ID is not just in the US and you have your number published on the Internet for everyone to see. You have no clue how wrong that is in today's world.

Kat drink a glass wine, take a deep breath and please please please just leave us alone. Please take that crap about CAG off your blog. Okay? Let's just go our seperate ways please.

V

BONUS TRACK: A LETTER TO A THIRD PARTY FURNISHED TO ME
BY AN INTELLIGENCE SOURCE

12 Jan 2006

[name redacted]

This is a confidential reply to your email. I'm going to break out the questions you posed and answer them one by one rather than comment on everything you've said. I'll keep it short as I am busy elsewhere and it's very late here.

1. NFPA 1600 Audits - We are not doing these in Haiti.

2. We are not working for any US government agency at this time. However we are actively pursuing DHS contracts in the US and USAID research projects overseas.

3. Whatever information you think you have on CAG is probably incorrect or fabricated if the source traces back to Dr Jordan Sage-Thomas, her Dominican girlfriend or Kathryn Cramer. Everything these three are circulating is bogus. Sage and her girlfriend are agent provocateurs for the terrorist group ADLN working to further destabilize and obstruct the painful election process in Haiti. Cramer is at best a foolish complicit dupe in that affair.

4. CAG is not involved in any type of interdiction services anywhere. I can't even guess where you would come up with that.

5. CAG is not "schooling" any local nationals in Haiti. We may succeed in getting some US State Department funding for training the Haitian National Police but that is a very forward-looking possibility for 2007. The current PNH has essentially collapsed in on itself unable to make payroll and many of its patrol cars are parked in major intersections without gas.

6. We have a sub-contract under a Haitian firm for a reorganization study of the DGI (Haitian Customs) paid for by the Inter-American Development Bank. We have already presented a plan to restructure and resurrect that totally corrupt and ineffective organization and replace it with legitimate revenue generating tax and tariff collection agency that will replace 65% of the Haitian government's dependence on foreign financing to stay afloat. Currently 85% of all legitimate taxes wind up in the pockets of DGI officials.

<<CONFIDENTIAL>> We also have a prime contract with a South American military force to advise on "Multinational Joint Missions Activity Coordination" in their role within MINUSTAH. We are also actively involved in consultations to manage the flow and production of actionable intelligence against the criminal gangs that run much of the country now.

We are providing security intelligence for 2 multinational financial organizations as part of a long-term sub-contract under an American firm.

Finally, we are working on a proposal to renovate Haiti's aviation services industry and the international airports in PAP and Cap Haitien. We are still doing the legwork and vulnerability assessments on this project but it looks rather good.

7. Peter Casini. I don't know the man and until Kathryn Cramer started accusing us of working with him I had no idea who he was. CAG likes their boats for the DGI project and we can get the same boats (if we have a buyer) from a Panamanian company that mimics their design. Top Cat has never been a vendor or partner with CAG or anyone in CAG.

I think I covered everything you asked about. Anything else?

Val